

To whom it may concern,

I'm recommending Jon Vogel as an iOS developer here at Google. I worked with Jon at Nomad Go where we collaborated to build computer vision models and implement state of the art AI native features to count inventory.

Not only does Jon have the technical skill to succeed in this role but he is a team player who is always celebrating other success and improving company culture.